FORENSIC ACCOUNTING SERVICES

Fraud, embezzlement, partner or shareholder disputes, breach of contract, trademark infringement, dissolution and litigation are not terms anyone wants to hear related to the operation of their business, or to their personal financial situation.

But, the truth is that they happen -way too often. Being properly equipped and supported to address them is why Price CPAs offers forensic accounting services.

There are actually two important sides to addressing these sensitive issues. The first is preparation and use of correct processes to help keep them from happening. Price CPAs works with clients to review internal processes to help assure that opportunities for improper financial choices or actions by anyone are minimized.

Second, we have specialized training in not only discovering what might have happened, but how it happened and who is responsible. We can measure the related damage should that information be needed for litigation.

Details discovered through our forensic accounting practices are used to assist clients in addressing problems and creating improved risk and compliance approaches as part of future diligence.
